PIPC cancels camp ground

'Inlet' slated for boating, picnicking

By RON NOWAK

Apparently heeding an almost unanimous protest by Village of Greenwood Lake residents last April, the Palisades Interstate Park Commission (PIPC) will not build a 120-site tent and recreational vehicle campground on the shores of Greenwood Lake's northern arm as originally intended. The commission oversees the 17,719-acre Sterling Forest State Park (SFSP) which borders the village.

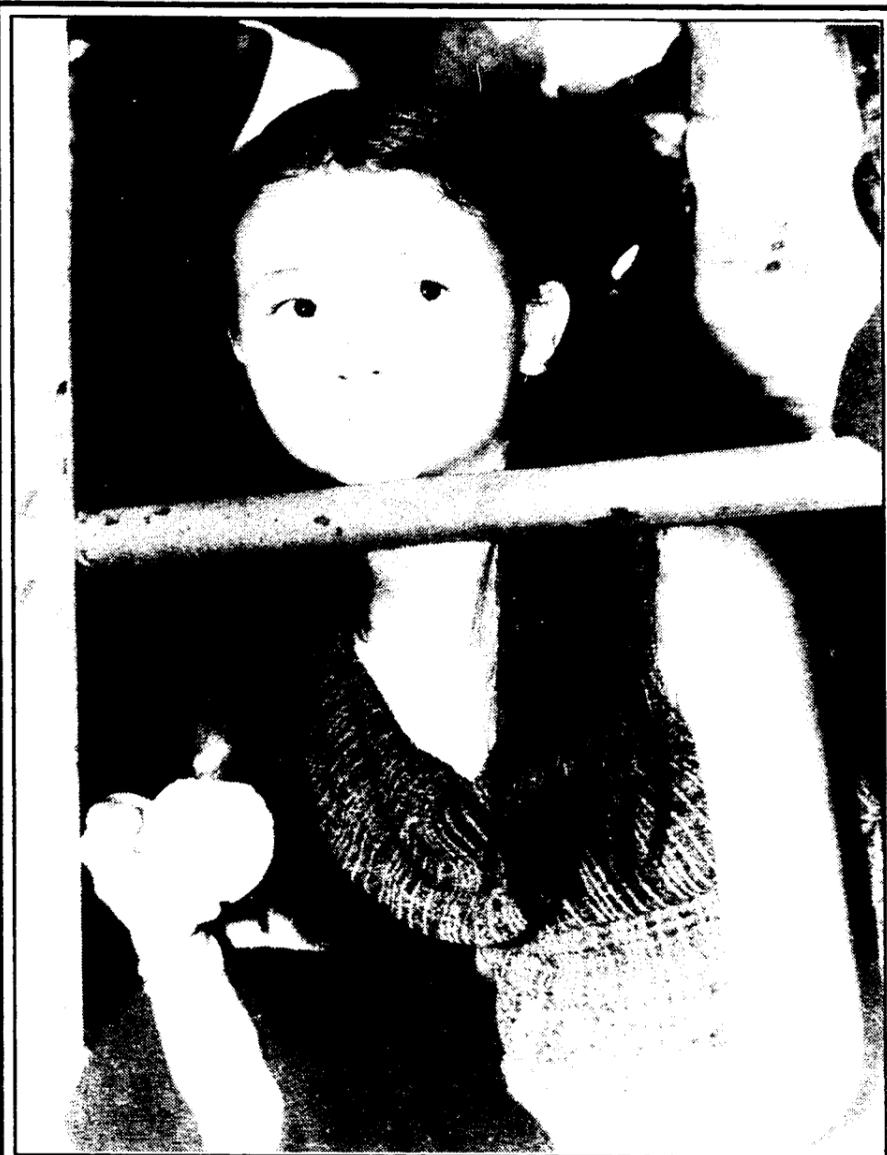

According to the SFSP Master Plan and Final Environmental Impact Statement Executive Summary, released on Sept. 17, the "inlet" portion of the park, which borders the northern arm of the lake, will be restricted to car top boat launching, a trail head connector and "informal" picnicking.

The Town of Warwick beach, also owned by SFSP but operated and maintained by the town, is slated to remain a swimming, picnicking and eventually a boat launch site. The beach is located about three miles from the center of the village on the east shore of the lake.

The prospect of a 120-site campground in what is known as the Orchard section of Lakelands brought out residents in large numbers to last April's public hearing. The residents' message was almost unanimous: a campground in the midst of a residential neighborhood is a bad idea. Residents expressed fears that the campground would attract the homeless, transients and undesirables to what is now a safe and secure neighborhood. Village officials, including Mayor Bill Morris, expressed fear that a campground will cost village taxpayers in terms of additional police, fire and ambulance costs.

Other residents pointed out the site is largely wetlands and is not suitable for a campground. Others questioned whether area roads can accommodate as many as 500 campers, some driving large RVs. The problem of sewage disposal was also raised as a factor in the construction of the campground.

The full text of Sterling Forest State Park's final master plan and final environmental impact statement is, according to PIPC, available at the Greenwood Lake Public Library.

Down zoning delay

Councilman says plan may not be the answer

By JENNIE SWEETMAN

The hearing on the down zoning of the township's Union Valley Rd. corridor will have to wait for at least another week. But already there are rumblings from at least one councilman that the proposal may not be the solution to what is generally perceived to be a wave of residential development and impending sprawl.

At last Wednesday's council meeting, Township Clerk Kevin Byrnes advised that due to an error in the legal notice, the public hearing on the proposed down zoning amendment has been delayed until next Wednesday.

The amendment to the township's zoning ordinance proposes a decrease in allowable density on about 300 acres of developable land, from one house per acre to one house on four acres.

Councilman Phil Weisbecker Jr., while observing, "This is something that we all want and I am in favor of it," cautioned down zoning must be done responsibly. Weisbecker said he is meeting with the owners of large tracts of land to hear their points of view. Weisbecker said that down zoning may not work in some instances. He predicted it may create problems. "We have to go into it carefully. It is not a dead issue. It has to be looked at from many angles," he said.

The proposed amendment includes property along Union Valley Rd. from south of Dockerty Hoilow Rd. to north of Wooley Rd.

Pinecrest

Included in the down zoning proposal is the Pinecrest Lake community, much of which has been obtained by the township through condemnations and tax liens. Residents have told the council that while they do not oppose down zoning, they do want to know why the township has rejected their individual bids to purchase condemned or municipally-owned property. The township, in addition to owning many of the abandoned lots and cabins, also owns the lake and the lake bottom.

Resident Susan Taylor said she wants to acquire an adjacent lot to avoid the need for variances she will have to seek when she applies to upgrade her cabin.

William Zelop read a letter he sent to the township in November 1998 seeking to purchase an adjoining lot. He said the letter was presented to three different

Lake's Falls Festival set

The Greenwood Lake Chamber of Commerce will host its annual Fall Festival Friday evening, Sept. 28, beginning at 6 p.m., and all day Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 29-30, 10 a.m.-6 p.m. There is no admission charge. Plenty of free parking will be available.

The Fall Festival, which will go on rain or shine, will feature children's games and rides as well as adult rides, amusements, and entertainment and music. There will be a food court on Saturday and Sunday featuring dishes prepared by local chefs. The festival's popular pig roast will again delight diners.

The Festival opens Friday evening with DJ music as well as rides and games for both children and adults. On Saturday and Sunday, there will also be a boat show, and live music and entertainment.

On Sunday, a portion of the village's main thoroughfare, Windermere Ave, will be closed to traffic and transformed into a pedestrian mall. There will be crafts, antiques, collectibles, an art show, antique car show and a pet show. Pie-eating and hula hoop contests are also planned on Sunday.

Handicapped parking and toilet facilities will be available. For further information, call the Chamber, (845) 477-0112 or visit its web site at www.greenwoodlakeny.org

Senior housing alive but on shaky ground

By JENNIE SWEETMAN and RON NOWAK

Rumors of the complete demise of the controversial West Milford senior housing complex project slated for a portion of the Wallisch tract off Lincoln Ave. appear to have been exaggerated. But, despite some advances, the project still appears to be on shaky ground.

At last week's West Milford Township Council meeting, Councilwoman Maria Harkey, a senior housing proponent, announced that contrary to popular belief, the project is not dead and has, in fact, been awarded tax credits and some of the necessary funding.

Harkey, a senior housing proponent since her days as mayor, sniped at opponents of the controversial project, saying that the necessary funding came through, "Although some of you tried to make sure that it (the project) didn't get it"

The 50-unit project is planned for a five-acre portion of the Wallisch tract which was deeded jointly to the township and school district following the death, earlier this year, of Lou Wallisch. Despite the lack of an agreement as to which jurisdiction owns what, the township, several years ago when Wallisch was still alive, purchased a portion of the tract for $120,000, committing the township to the project despite serious questions as to the long-term financial viability of the plan, and questions regarding whether the project will be financially viable without future township subsidies.

It was recently announced that the township's Senior Housing Corp. was awarded low income housing tax credits by the NJ Mortgage Housing Finance Agency and additional funding by the State of NJ Balanced Housing Credit Fund as well as through local contributions. Additional major funding, consultant Sr. Alice Matthew of Community Housing Developers announced, will be coming via TISCIC, a private mortgage company representing a consortium of banks.

But the controversial project appears to still have several major hurdles in front of it, beginning with the Passaic County Planning Board which has, reportedly, withheld approval of the application, noting the Wallisch tract has never been subdivided.

Although the Senior Housing Corp. has reportedly received the go-ahead on the tax credits, the corporation still needs to find someone to put up capital in lieu of obtaining the credits.

The WM Senior Housing Corp. (WMSHC), on the advice of attorney Frank Scangarella, has also declared that because it is not a "public body" under the definition employed in the state's Open Meetings Act, its meetings need not be public. Subsequent to that decision, the WMSHC closed its last meeting to the public, excluding one resident who was in attendance.

According to a memo from Scangarella, the WMSHC decided to go into closed session to discuss contract negotiations, "although the board intends to make all of its decisions public at the appropriate time."

Township Council Briefs

By JENNIE SWEETMAN

At last Wednesday's West Milford Township Council meeting:

- No action was taken on a request by resident Chris Seliga, who asked the council to adopt a resolution supporting Senate Bill S2089, which seeks to prohibit the building of communication tower facilities in certain circumstances.

Seliga noted Sprint Spectrum has submitted plans to erect several cellular telephone towers in town. The company, he said, has indicated up to 14 tower proposals will be forthcoming. With other cell phone companies planning to submit proposals, Seliga predicted there could be as many as 50-60 tower applications.

If adopted, the bill will prohibit the erection of communication towers with 1,000 feet of a public or private school, any area zoned residential or any public park.

- The lack of maintenance on Passaic County roads continues to annoy township residents. Council members Maria Harkey and Phil Weisbecker Jr. insist that the county's signs on Union Valley and Echo Lake roads announcing repairs should be removed until the county actually does the work. The county had promised the work would be completed this year. Weisbecker, saying township taxpayers send over $10 million to the county annually and gets back only $700,000 in services, said "Take the signs down."

Township Manager Ken Hetrick advised he discussed the issue with the county and was advised it is awaiting a

Hearing on town's PDR ordinance postponed

By RON NOWAK

The Warwick Town Board has postponed tomorrow's scheduled public hearing on the town's purchase of development rights (PDR) law which authorizes the town to borrow $9.5 million primarily to purchase farm development rights within the Warwick and Florida school districts' boundaries, and to purchase open space within the Greenwood Lake and Tuxedo school districts. The hearing will now be held on Oct. 11, 7 p.m.

Based on a consensus agreement reached between representatives of the town and its villages, and a subsequent inter-municipal agreement, approximately 63% of the available funding will be spent within the Warwick school district. About 24% will go toward projects in the Greenwood Lake school district and a portion of the Tuxedo school district, neither of which contain farms.

Originally designed primarily as a farm development rights purchase program, PDR drew vocal and vehement opposition from Greenwood Lake voters and elected officials who complained that they, through PDR taxation, will be forced to subsidize Warwick school district tax rates by paying, in effect, to reduce development in Warwick. The town is currently attempting to slow down the pace of residential development and stop impending sprawl.

Greenwood Lake PDR opponents contended that since there are no farms in Greenwood Lake, the purchase of privately-owned open space within the Greenwood Lake school district would put a double taxation burden on local property owners since they, in effect, would have to pay not only to acquire the space but to make up lost tax revenue when the open space is taken off the tax rolls. Voters in the six Greenwood Lake voting districts came out overwhelmingly against the town's plan, which passed town-wide by a slim margin.

The town has targeted approximately 3,000 acres of up-land farms for preservation under the new law, which stipulates the purchase of those farms' development rights by the town. Under the terms of the purchase, the land cannot be developed and must remain either as a farm or as open space. The program is entirely voluntary on the part of farm land owners.

Although the town's Agricultural and Open Space Preservation and Acquisition Local Law provides for a sharing of PDR funds based on total assessments within each of the school districts in the town, the law stipulates that any land, or land rights, targeted for purchase within any incorporated village must be approved by that specific village.

Prior to last November's referendum, the town attempted to purchase the DePaulis tract, in the heart of Greenwood Lake village. The tract is the last remaining large commercially-zoned land in the village. Village residents and officials protested the attempted deal, which never went through.

Other key provisions of the law include: funds spent in the Greenwood Lake and Tuxedo school districts will not be limited to the purchase of land not already on the tax rolls; if the town purchases village-owned land, the town and village will enter into an agreement specifying the "types of uses for which the funds can be used to preserve and enhance open space." In practical terms, the town could purchase the village-owned Lions Field, with the money to be used to improve and maintain the waters of Greenwood Lake, also considered open space.

Also under the provisions of the law, the town's controversial Agricultural Advisory Board will be designated, under the law, as The Town of Warwick Agricultural and Open Space Preservation Board. All seven board members will be appointed by the town board, including four members of the currently-existing Ag Advisory Board and one member from each of the three villages. The board shall solicit PDR applications and review agricultural PDR applications.

No reason was given for the hearing postponement.

Village ZBA OK's two applications

By RON NOWAK

The Village of Greenwood Lake Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA), last Thursday, granted a 13.8-foot rear-yard setback variance to Derek Burrige. The variance will allow Burrige to add a level to a Wah-Ta-Wah Park house he intends to purchase and remodel. The property is located on Sixth Rd. and Wildwood Dr.

Under current zoning, a 30-foot rear-yard setback is required. The pre-existing structure, however, was built with only a 16.2-foot setback.

Burrige, who told the board he needs the variance as a condition of his loan, said the site's septic system will be upgraded to include a "closed" aerobic system that treats the effluent with chlorine. The tanks, he indicated, will be oversized for what will be a three-bedroom house. Burrige also plans to close an existing two-car garage and convert it into storage space and a workshop. Burrige also plans to add one bathroom.

Burrige said he is moving to Greenwood Lake from Manhattan.

The ZBA also granted Don Bayne, another Wah-Ta-Wah Park resident, permission to place a 10-foot by 16-foot storage shed, considered an accessory building, closer to the road than the existing house. Bayne told the board a cliff behind his home prevents the shed from being placed there. Bayne, whose house is on the seventh level of Wah-Ta-Wah Park, said he will place the shed 15 feet from the road and 10 feet from the property's side line.

Both variances were granted unanimously, by 5-0 votes.

Festival road closings

30, the following road closures will be in effect:

- Chestnut St. will be closed to traffic from Sept. 27 (Thursday) to Oct. 1 (Monday) between Windermere Ave. and Oak St.

- On Sept. 30 (Sunday), Windermere Ave. will be closed from Waterstone Rd. to Walnut St. The southbound detour will re-route traffic from Windermere Ave. to Walnut St. to Linden Ave. to Waterstone Rd. and back to Windermere Ave. The northbound detour will take traffic to Church St. to Court Ave. to Waterstone Rd., to Sterling Rd. to TenEyck Ave. to Rte. 17A/210 to Windermere Ave.

Detour signs will be posted. Police officers will be stationed at key intersections. In addition, side streets off Windermere Ave. will be closed to through traffic. However, residents and businesses will have access through back street detours.

ZBA going through cell tower motions

By JENNIE SWEETMAN

Despite conceding that there is little the West Milford Zoning Board of Adjustment (ZBA) can do to regulate Sprint Spectrum's proposed 125-foot monopole tower proposed for Larsen Rd., ZBA Chairman Joseph DiDonato, last Thursday, agreed to continue the company's application until the board's Oct. 18 agenda which, he noted, already has a crowded agenda. The current application is one of as many as 14 the company anticipates bringing before the board.

With many residents waiting through the entire four-hour meeting to express their concerns, the ZBA deviated from its normal procedure, allowing a few residents to speak at the close of the session. DiDonato noted the township has its own expert witnesses who will be called to testify, adding, normally the meeting is not opened to the public until after the township has presented its testimony.

The township's two expert witnesses were unable to attend Thursday's meeting but will listen to the meeting tapes and will review materials submitted by Sprint. Radio frequency expert Charles A. Hecht & Associates and Darmofalski Engineering Associates, Inc. are expected to send experts to the next meeting.

According to Sprint planner David Zimmerman, variances are needed since cell towers are not permitted in the township's residential zones, the maximum allowable height is 90 feet, and the access road has slopes of 20% where only 10% are allowed.

Zimmerman said cell towers are permitted in HC or light industrial zones or on municipally-owned properties such as firehouses. He asserted about 95% of the township is zoned residentially, noting few of the company's proposed tower locations are in allowable zones.

Sprint engineer Glenn Pierson advised the company plans to erect between 12-14 towers in the township to provide 75% coverage. According to Pierson, Sprint now has three towers on Rte. 23 and has approvals for towers on Dockerty Rd. and Apschawa firehouse sites.

Pierson, after refusing to divulge the company's future plans, presented a map showing the areas where future towers are planned, including Shady Lake, township hall, Lakeland Plaza, the airport, Upper Greenwood Lake and Westbrook near the quarry.

The Larsen Rd. site, said Sprint experts, will cover 1.5 miles on Otterhole Rd., three-quarters of a mile on Maple Rd. and Lindy Lake. According to Terrence Luluay, the proposed site contains 8,400 square feet, there will be a 156-foot front yard set back, and the area surrounding the tower compound will be fenced. There will be a locked gate located at the entrance to the gravel driveway.

Luluay said the pole will be placed on a 10-by-20 cement slab and there will be seven equipment cabinets, each about 28-inches square and five-feet high.

Zimmerman testified a balloon test conducted on the site in August showed the tower will be visible from only two locations. He cited the precedent created by the case of Smart (Nextel) vs. Fair Lawn. DiDonato advised in that case, the Fair Lawn ZBA denied a tower application but the state Supreme Court overruled the decision, saying the tower could be built since the municipality must make wireless communication available to residents.

Resident Ed Simeone questioned the impact the poles and cell phones will have on people's health, noting the impact power lines have on people who live near them. Simeone also reminded the ZBA the use of cell telephones is banned in hospitals because they interfere with equipment. He asked if the transmissions will interfere with pacemakers, TVs, radios or cordless phones.

Sprint consultant Lou Cornacchia testified the proposed tower should not have an impact on other electronic equipment. As for pacemakers, he said, that is the responsibility of the manufacturer.

Resident Ray Schulz of Joseph Pl. raised concerns relative to access to the 22-home development if an emergency occurs at the Larsen Rd. site. He predicted the community will be completely isolated, since there is only one access. The ZBA indicated it will have township emergency coordinator Michael Woch review that aspect of the application.

Resident Monica Mariny strongly opposed the application. "I think after the past week we have to agree that anything can happen. The tower can fall and equipment can catch fire. We do not need another service. It's a disastrous system and it doesn't work." When asked by DiDonato if she would like to hear a rebuttal to her comments she stormed out of the room saying, "No thanks. I have heard enough."

When resident Michael Toro suggested property values will decrease if the tower is built, noting the tower will stick out like a sore thumb since it rises 60 feet above the tree line, ZBA attorney Stephen Glatt suggested Toro must bring in an expert to testify to that fact.

DiDonato told residents the ZBA has no control over radiation or state court decisions, adding the Smart case has set the guidelines and the board can't deviate. He added when it is possible, the ZBA will impose conditions on the applicant. He assured residents the board is not ignoring their concerns.

Also set for Thursday's meeting, but not heard, was a Sprint application covering a tower to be located at the Macopin Firehouse, 1362 Macopin Rd., in an R-3 zone.
